Code of Ethics

As members of the Kansas Electronic Security Association (KESA) we shall strive to maintain the highest level of integrity and professionalism within the electronic systems industry by adhering to this Code of Ethics.

- We shall maintain a high level of honesty and integrity in the sale of electronic systems, sell products of high quality at fair market prices, provide proper service after completion of installation and honor warranty claims made by the consumer.
- We shall work continuously to improve the craftsmanship and quality of installations through proper training and education of all concerned.
- Provide mutual support and assistance between members and disseminate information vital to the electronic systems industry.
- Cooperate with and assist regulatory agencies in producing codes and legislation beneficial to the general public and the electronic systems industry.
- Strive to eliminate excessive regulation that causes increased consumer cost with no apparent benefits.
- Support resolution of disputes through independent arbitration.
- Maintain a good relationship with state and local government agencies. Conduct business within the laws and ordinance of said agencies.
- Participate in worthwhile community activities, which relate to areas outside the security industry as well as within.
- Strive to eliminate false alarms by maintaining a high standard of professionalism with regard to the sale and installation of electronic systems, and through proper education of the general public in their use.
